

LED characteristics

LED's are more energy efficient than other display options.

They are far more efficient than incandescent lamps. LED's have a vastly superior life span, lasting typically more than 100,000 hours.

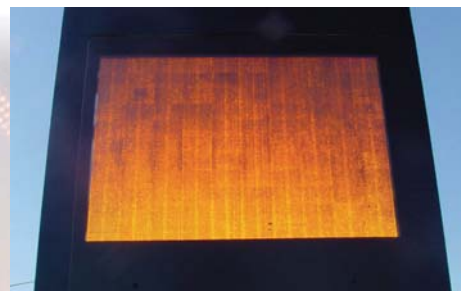

Legible Display

LED displays utilise high intensity LED pixels which are legible from great distances. The controller automatically adjusts LED intensity to provide effective display contrast for the given viewing condition.

Sign Selection

Although the selection of the appropriate sign for your application is not a difficult task, many factors should be considered to achieve the optimum solution. Many aspects need to be considered from the viewing distance and location, the content the sign should display, text, graphics or even full video, communication methods available, sorting through the vast selection of colour options to more simplistic matters such as the physical size.

Uniform Appearance

High quality LED's along with our manufacturing techniques ensure uniform intensity and colour are achieved across the entire display.

Advertise & Inform

LED Based signage provides an efficient & versatile way to communicate & inform.

Stand out from your competition by making use of an additional advertising method that improves your exposure, sales prospects & penetration as well as product and company recognition. Other very useful applications include keeping employees & customers informed of specific events, schedules, tasks or duties in a timely, cost effective way.

Location

Make use of your location.

Take advantage of all that traffic passing your store. By having a LED Display that you can change from day to day you will be able to effectively advertise & promote your business to each and every one of these passers by. Attract with things like the daily specials or simply draw attention by displaying time & temperature information.
